

It may be Black History Month, but SF students engage in Ethnic Studies classes year-round

It may be Black History Month, but SF students engage in Ethnic Studies classes year-round

Myong Leigh, San Francisco Examiner

February 7, 2017

Interim Superintendent Myong Leigh explains SFUSD's approach to developing students' knowledge of diverse histories throughout the full school year. Leigh cites Stanford's study to describe the influential role Ethnic Studies has had on student outcomes.

Article

[READ ARTICLE
HERE](#)

Related Materials

- NEWS: Can separate be equal? SF Chronicle
- Text messaging program helps boost language skills in preschoolers, study finds
- NEWS: The Power of a Good Idea: How San Francisco is Building a PreK-3rd Grade Bridge
- NEWS: Stanford teams up with San Francisco schools to prepare math teacher-leaders
- NEWS: Memorizers are the lowest achievers and other Common Core math surprises
- New Stanford Program Texts Parents to Help Teach Their Kindergartners to Read
- NEWS: How the CORE districts are designing new measures of school quality
- NEWS: How do you start, maintain, and sustain a research-practice partnership?
- NEWS: Teachers are about to get the data they need to educate your kids, experts say
- NEWS - The Case for Ethnic Studies in All Schools So Students Can Excel